What is a Crisis?

A crisis is any situation that requires prompt attention but is not immediately life threatening.

For example:

- Escalating or worsening symptoms of diagnosed and/or undiagnosed mental illness, substance misuse and/or intellectual developmental disability
- Difficulty caring for oneself and/or impulsive behavior that presents a threat to safety
- Suicidal ideas, threats, plans, and/or behaviors
- Homicidal ideas, threats, plans, and/or behaviors

If the situation is life threatening, please call 911 or go to the nearest emergency department.

How to Access Services?

ALL BMCRS are dispatched through the Georgia Crisis and Access Line (GCAL) at 1-800-715-4225.

What to expect from GCAL?

When you call GCAL, you will speak with a trained professional, who will gather the following information:

- Demographics (to include insurance)
- Crisis Location
- Nature of Crisis
- Level of Risk
- Treatment History (to include medication)

What to expect from BMCRS

Once dispatched, a member of the BMCRS team will make contact to give the estimated time of arrival.

BMCRS will respond with a licensed clinician and a paraprofessional. Once on-site, BMCRS will:

- Identify the Presenting Issue(s)
- Complete a Crisis Assessment to include: Mental Status, Risk Assessment, Medical Issues, Substance Misuse, and Treatment History & Response
- Gather information regarding stressors and supports
- Determine the most appropriate service for linkage
- Develop a Safety Plan
- Linkage to IDD Services, if indicated

What Happens Next?

For individuals referred to inpatient services, BMCRS will work with GCAL or private providers to secure appropriate placement.

For individuals referred to outpatient services or other community-based services, The Care Navigator (a certified peer specialist) and/or a Field Care Consultant will provide follow-up until linkage is confirmed.
